Perugia

Perugia is a historic city in central Italy, renowned for its rich cultural heritage, medieval architecture, and vibrant atmosphere. As the capital of the Umbria region, it crowns a hilltop, offering stunning views over the surrounding countryside. The city's well-preserved medieval center features highlights such as the Palazzo dei Priori, the Cathedral of San Lorenzo, and the Fontana Maggiore.

Home to one of Italy's oldest universities, the University of Perugia, the city enjoys a youthful, international energy. Perugia is also famous for its cultural events, including the Umbria Jazz Festival and the Eurochocolate Festival, reflecting its long-standing tradition in chocolate-making. With its charming streets, artistic treasures, and lively cultural scene, Perugia offers visitors a unique blend of history and modernity, making it an unforgettable destination.
